Ryan, Russell, Ogden & Seltzer LLP

Ryan, Russell, Ogden & Seltzer LLP is a Pennsylvania-based law firm that has been representing primarily major corporate clients in regulated industries for more than fifty years. With the passage of Act 71 in July 2004, Ryan Russell has expanded its practice to assist clients in the preparation, filing, and litigation of applications and licenses with the Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board (PGCB) and appellate courts.

Ryan Russell addresses legal needs for clients in a wide variety of venues primarily in Pennsylvania, but also in Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, and at the Federal level. Ryan Russell has represented major public utilities and corporations in numerous administrative and regulatory proceedings, legislative activities, litigation before State and Federal courts, facilities siting, land use and eminent domain activities, complex commercial transactions, environmental matters, and computer law. Ryan Russell has drafted and assisted in the enactment of various utility-related legislation, including recent amendments to Pennsylvania's public utility law.

Ryan Russell maintains offices adjacent to the Pennsylvania State Capitol complex in Harrisburg, and in Southeastern Pennsylvania in proximity to the Greater Philadelphia metropolitan area. With its strong team-oriented atmosphere and its focused areas of expertise, Ryan Russell is positioned to serve a wide variety of clients in an evolving and ever-changing marketplace.

Experience that comes from decades of practice before the United States and Pennsylvania Courts, Public Utility Commission, Department of Environmental Protection, Environmental Hearing Board, Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Environmental Protection Agency, and the new Pennsylvania Gaming Control Board.
